Scarification is extremely beneficial, it removes excess material and allows your grass the room to breathe. It also helps to manage moss and symptoms causing disease. Moss uses spores to breed, removing thatch and other cultural conditions is the best way to discourage moss growth.

Hollow-TineAeration will remove thousands of plugs from the lawn relieving compaction and break down any sub-surface thatch, this allows water and nutrients to pass into the root zone. This aids gaseous exchange for healthy soil and helps to improve drainage, stopping water sitting in the thatch layer, a drier top surface discourages moss and disease.
